Newark Needs Many
New Dwelling Houses

VOLUME 99—NUMBER 90

NEWARK, OHIO, MONDAY EVENING, MARCH 8, 1920

TEN CENTS A WEEK

BROTHERHOODS
WILL OPEN WAGE
PARLEY MARCH 10

Decision is Reached at Conference With Director Hines.

BOARD WILL ACT WITHOUT HELP OF FEDERAL CHIEF

Long Fight Is Expected By Both Sides of Controversy.

Washington, March 8.—Representative of the railroad brotherhoods and the coal mines here Wednesday to begin negotiations looking to a settlement of the wage demands of the 2,000,000 railway workers. The machinery with which an effort will be made to settle the dispute is that provided for in the railroad bill.

Decision to start the wage adjusting machinery on Wednesday was reached at a conference today between Director General Hines and T. Dewitt Cuyler, president of the National Association of Railroad Executives. Director Hines will open the first meeting and is expected to lay before the executives suggestions in line with the government's experience with the railway wage problem.

After the first meeting Mr. Hines will withdraw and the board will continue with its official membership. The board will be represented by the executive heads of the 15 organizations which have stood together in the demands for higher wages. A committee of nine has been selected by the Association of Railway Executives to represent the corporations.

Spokesmen on both sides of the controversy anticipate a long drawn-out fight. Labor leaders have said repeatedly they had receded as far as is consistent with the instructions of their membership. The corporation officials said they would enter the conference ready to cooperate in granting wage increases as their incomes would permit.

REFINERY RUNS
UNDER HANDICAP

Failure of Material to Arrive Leaves Steam Pipes Protected by Boards.

The Ohio Cities Gas company is operating two stills at the new refinery at Heath. The company is operating under difficulty through failure of material to arrive. Some of the large steam pipes have only a temporary board covering.

In spite of this however on March 3, 1163 barrels were pumped from the tanks into the stills and 2629 barrels were received at the tanks. The oil carried from the Black Run field through the pipe line to the plant.

On March 4, the company received 2623 barrels at the tanks and on March 5 the company pumped 1545 barrels from the receiving tanks to the stills and 2728 barrels.

The oil from the pipe lines is stored in 2, 55,000 barrel tanks and, 30,000 barrel tank aside from smaller tanks.

GERMANY PROTESTS AGAINST DELIVERANCE OF WAR CRIMINALS

Speakers at Munich mass meeting protesting against deliverance of German war criminals.

As soon as the allies presented their demands for the delivery of about 800 Germans, including such national heroes as Hindenburg, Ludendorff, Mackensen, etc., great demonstrations were held all over Germany in protest against the compliance of Germany to the allies' demands. One of the mass meetings was held at Munich, and the photo shows the speakers in action. The signs read: "Against the Deliverance." Apparently the protests were successful in inducing the allies to back down.

OHIO WOMEN MAY HAVE PART IN APRIL PRIMARIES

If No Referendum Against New Act Before April 20 Women Will Vote, Secretary of State Says.

Women voters of Ohio will be entitled to participate in the presidential primaries April 27, provided no referendum is filed against the Reynolds act before April 20. Secretary of State Smith has advised local boards of election.

The secretary of state will send out to local election officials this week forms of the ballots to be submitted to the voters in the coming primaries and instructions to voters.

There will be two ballots, one bearing the names of the candidates for president and vice-president of the two parties, and the other ballot known as the "delegate ballot," bearing the names of the candidates for delegates and alternates at large, and candidates for district delegates to the national conventions, as well as candidates for delegates and alternates to the conventions of the two political parties.

The Republican presidential ballot will have on it the names of Warren G. Harding and General Leonard F. Wood for president and William Grant Webster and Elwood Washington for vice-president.

The Democratic ballot will bear no other name than that of James M. Cox for president.

Women will have a right to express their choice for president and also to vote for candidates for delegates and alternates at large, and for the national convention, according to Secretary of State Smith's instruction.

Secretary Smith holds that since the state platform convention is to elect the presidential electors, women are therefore entitled to vote for delegates which is to make up the convention as the national convention, according to the Reynolds act giving women the right to vote in presidential elections is short. It reads as follows: "Every woman born in the United States, or who is the wife or daughter of a citizen of the United States, who is over 21 years of age and possesses the necessary qualifications in regard to residence hereinafter provided for men, shall be entitled to vote and be voted for for member of the board of education and presidential elector and to vote and be voted for at any and all primaries or other elections provided for in sections 4953, 4954 and 4955 of the general code and upon no other question."

Secretary of State Smith has called attention to local election officials that the granting in these primaries means that almost double the usual amount of ballots will be cast and that the provisions must also be made for the registration of women in cities having registration.

In order to vote in the primaries, women as well as the men will be required to state their politics. It will be the first general election in the state in which women have participated and politicians will await results with much interest.

Democrats will make no special effort to have the women vote as there is no contest in the Democratic primaries.

J. H. Price, manager of the forces behind the candidacy of Major General Leonard Wood, has announced that women favorable to the general's candidacy will probably organize this week to urge their sisters to go to the polls and vote for the Wood candidates for delegates.

DIVIDENDS EXEMPT
HIGH COURT HOLDS

Decision Declares That Stock Dividend Cannot Be Taxed as Income—Must Refund Millions.

Washington, March 8.—Stock dividends are not to be taxed as income, the supreme court held today in declaring unconstitutional the provisions of the 1916 income tax act taxing as incomes such dividends declared by corporations out of earnings and profits accruing after March 1, 1913. The court divided 5 to 4, Justice Pitney rendering the majority opinion, Justice Holmes and Day joining in one dissenting opinion and Justices Clarke and Brandies in another.

Under the court's ruling, the federal government must refund millions of dollars in taxes collected on stock dividends since the 1916 law became effective. Internal revenue bureau officials said today the exact total of the refunds could not be estimated at this time and that it would not be known until all claims had been filed and computed.

American Legion Committee Suggests Sane Plan for Relief.

SAYS MISTAKE IS MADE IN PRESENTING PROPOSALS

Suggests That Land Near Cities Be Condemned For Soldiers.

Washington, March 8.—A serious mistake was made by the American Legion in presenting its proposals for soldier relief in the form in which it did, the house ways and means committee was told today by Colonel E. Lester Jones, a member of the legion's executive committee. He said the executive committee would assemble this month and that he proposed to suggest that it formulate "a definite and sane policy" for presentation to congress in a "quiet and respectful way."

Colonel Jones said he believed the legion also should present a well considered plan for financing any plan it proposed.

Discussing the farm settlement proposal, the witness said that in making an estimate some months ago he had found that about 350,000 former soldiers desired an opportunity to take over a farm.

While he approved in principle a land settlement scheme, Colonel Jones said it should not be confined to vacant public lands or remote out over lands in the south and west but that vacant lands in the vicinity of the cities should be condemned and purchased for soldiers use.

Chairman Fordney insisted over many objections on reading a letter from Baltimore signed "doughboys" and protesting against the recent statement to the committee by Captain Walter E. Burns that ex-soldiers did not desire a bonus or to further embarrass the treasury.

"If we hadn't gone overseas," the letter said, "the United States treasury which there is so much hollering about being busted would be busted right paying indemnity to the Germans."

BUYS MACHINERY
WORTH $150,000

Cree-Becker Company Announces Further Plans—To Have Modern Shop.

Tentative contracts for $150,000 worth of machinery and building material has been let by the Cree-Becker company, which will soon start its building operations in Newark according to the announcement of representatives today.

An innovation in the motive power of the plant will be introduced when compressed air will be used to run all the hammers. Instead of steam, and all the various machines will be run by individual electric motors.

The latter part of the week J. A. Becker, H. J. Miller, blacksmith shop superintendent and Edward B. Miller, superintendent of the machine shop, were here from Kentucky in conference with J. A. Cree. The site in East Newark was gone over and the plans completed for the building project.

The party then left for a trip through Ohio and Pennsylvania to purchase machinery. The party visited Pittsburgh and Cleveland besides a number of other cities. At Pittsburgh the contract was let for the steel to be used during the year.

The building plans include the main building, a steel structure 60 by 250 feet, which is to be completed in fifty working days. The company is considering the estimates from three contractors before letting the contract. The other buildings will be two new ware houses 40 by 50 and 50 by 75 feet, the two story tile building now on the site, 50 by 60. This building will be used as a pattern shop and ware house, but temporarily it is being put in shape to house the repair shop of the company which will be ready for the working force in about three weeks.

IO SEEK PLACE AS COUNTY COMMISSIONER

A successor to the late County Commissioner J. C. Butt, whose funeral took place Sunday at Johnstown, and who will fill an unexpired term of a year and a half, will probably not be named until sometime tomorrow. The competing board of probate judges, Robt. Hunter, County Auditor Fred S. Wilson and County Recorder J. M. Fleming, stated that there were ten applicants for the appointment, but would not make their names public. Neither would members state how their choice would be made further than to say that it would be their aim to select the best man for the place.

JOHNSON REALIZED
DANGER OF JOURNEY
INTO AINTAB REGION

LETTER WRITTEN FOUR DAYS BEFORE HIS DEATH TELLS OF BEING TURNED BACK ON FIRST ATTEMPT.

WAS DETERMINED TO REACH REGION
WHERE CHRISTIANS NEEDED SUPPLIES

Writes Letter While Waiting For Favorable Weather to Renew Effort to Cover Distance Between Aleppo and Marsh—Tells of Trip Over Bagdad Railroad.

That Frank L. Johnson was not ignorant of the peril he faced when he left Aleppo, Syria, for the Aintab region where he met his death, is indicated by a letter received by the Advocate this morning, written by Mr. Johnson Jan. 29, dated at Aleppo.

In this letter he tells of the unrest among the natives because of the presence of French troops. He also speaks of the wagon and motor truck trains, guarded by soldiers, being fired upon by natives between Aleppo and Marsh.

He had already attempted the trip once when the letter was written, but he says, he was ordered back to Aleppo by the driver of a relief commission truck who was returning from the region where Mr. Johnson and Mr. Perry were murdered. Undaunted by the peril, Mr. Johnson was waiting only for favorable weather to again attempt the trip on which he met his death, Feb. 2, four days after the letter was written.

Mr. Johnson's letter is filled with interesting information concerning Syria, observations of one with two years' experiences in countries rent by war. Mr. Johnson's letter follows:

FRENCH LOSSES IN SYRIA.

Paris, March 8.—French losses in Cilicia from the end of January to February 15, which includes the period during which disorders occurred at Marash, were 158 killed, 279 wounded and 181 missing, according to the French.

"I am anxious to get a few words off to you while I am still in contact with a railroad. Mrs. Johnson and I are here waiting for a chance to get 125 miles farther north to Marash. A trip that has to be made either by auto or wagon. The roads are so bad now that it is impossible for an auto to get through, so the only way is by wagon. It takes 6 days to make the trip this way and the weather too cold and wet at present to permit one to undertake the trip. We got started last Friday in an auto (light Ren truck) and were only 35 miles on our way when night came on and we had to stop. Here we met a Ford car coming down from the town of our destination and the driver, being one of the regular transportation men of the Relief Commission, gave us a native driver not to go farther but to return to the wagon to Aleppo. Mrs. Johnson suffered much from the exposure and has been in bed most of the time since.

"That was my second attempt to get through. I shall try it again if I have a few days of good weather, but I shall have to go by wagon and be prepared to rough it. Added to the bad roads, another difficulty is met with. The French have taken over the police protection of the Cilician plain and the natives are not much in favor. They are afraid that they themselves will be 'dispossessed of the land,' consequently they fire upon the troops as they are passing along. The roads, tear up the railroads and harass them as much as possible. The natives have a right to be proud of their beautiful country.

OF SYMPATHY FOR COMPANION IN GRIEF

Mrs. Johnson Writes of Tragedy Which Overtakes Her In Far-Off Country—Had Known of Mr. Johnson's Death Only Few Hours When Letter Was Written.

Though stunned by her own grief, Mrs. Frank L. Johnson expresses her deep sympathy for Mrs. Perry, wife of the companion of Mr. Johnson, both of whom were killed by brigands near Aintab, Syria. Mrs. Johnson, in a letter written Feb. 4 at Aleppo, tells of the tragedy which came to her Feb. 1, three days before. She had just learned of the death of her husband and of course had made no plans for the future. The letter was written to Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Mitchell.

An Associated Press dispatch to the Advocate Saturday stated that the bodies of Mr. Johnson and Mr. Perry were buried in the American college churchyard at Aintab last Friday, full military honors being accorded the two Y. M. C. A. workers by the French army officials in that region.

"How can I write you what I have to say? I seem to be like one in a dream and that after a while I will wake up and find that it is untrue. Doesn't the word DEAD, KILLED have a far away sound to you? It doesn't seem to belong to me at all, and especially one who was so full of life and energy and love as was Frank. He is lying out somewhere on the hills, dead since last Sunday and I never knew it until this morning.

"The Turks are rising up in great numbers all around us and God only knows what will happen to us. Still, I am not afraid. I am over 35, I have no fear. There are a few Americans here. We also have a consul and vice-consul and they are doing all in their power to get word through for help. They are lovely to me and will do anything for me. I am sure it is possible. I do not want to leave without the body if I can help it. It just seems as though I can not leave him away over here, although I know that he is not in that body any longer. They are offering a big reward for the bodies and have three more out now to bring them in if possible. When we have the bodies, then I can better plan what I will do next.

"With Frank were Mr. Perry, the chief secretary for all Turkey, the Turkish driver and a lad who went along to him in a car. All were first in the Turkish army and all killed. A party of the A. C. R. N. E. followed them up on Monday. They got as far as Kilis and were forbidden to go any further. They waited until Tuesday morning and started out with 150 French troops thinking that they would be able to reach Aleppo through the desert. The French are not strong enough and I don't believe that they will be able to send enough men to hold it either.

"I can't write any more. I seem to have nothing more to say. Frank is (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2) here and there by olive orchards. The villages are built of mud and stone and consist of a lot of low square buildings with narrow alleys between them. Some are built with a round dome on. One can readily understand why they build houses of mud and stone. There seems to be very little wood of any kind and mud and stone are very plentiful. Here is Aleppo, the houses are being built of mud and stone that looks very substantial and the streets are paved and paved with the same material. I counted 116 camels on the road coming toward this city, loaded with bundles of wood, rugs, grain and various other things. I started to count the little donkeys also, but I soon lost my count. There were more of these than of camels. They are not very much larger than a yearling calf, but bear loads much larger than they are. I saw one slip and fall in the road. His load was so big that one had to look twice to see if there really was any animal there. The natives ride them about, sitting back just in front of the hump of the animal, after they have no halter or bridle on them. I saw some very fine Arabian horses here. I wish I could pick one and have it transported to the states. They seem to be cheap too. I saw a friend who had a horse worth $400. He said 40 gold pounds or about $200. Today is an interesting day here. At 7:00 a. m. the band began to play. I looked out to see Arab troops parading. The Emir Feisal was to arrive at 8 o'clock. I got breakfast and went out to see the parade. Some cannon shots were fired on the citadel; the school children, scouts and patriotic organizations were out with banners and flags. Prince Feisal rode with Jaffa Pasha, the military governor of the village of Aleppo. I do not know what the program for today is. Jaffa Pasha is getting ready to go to Paris and then on to America. He speaks English and expects to do a little chautauqua work while in our country. Last night Mr. Perry came from Constantinople and brought with him a bunch of letters a half dozen or more from Newark friends. We were very happy to get them.

Our trip from Constantinople here was full of interest but with much discomfort. This Baghdad railroad was of great interest to me. It is a fine road, well built, with steel rails and a fine track. The engineering of the Taurus mountains is of a high class. Much of this building through the mountains has been done since the war began with prisoners of war labor. The stations along the line are fine, being uniform in architecture and built of steel and cement with tile roofs. The rolling stock is much out of repair. Cars need painting, glass put in windows, etc. We suffered some from the cold coming through the mountains and over the high table lands. We had to furnish our own blankets for light and a good supply of blankets to keep us warm. I tell Mrs. Johnson that this is no place for a tenderfoot. One has to have the spirit of a real scout. Really one does not mind these little things much. Egypt on our way to India about April 1st. We got a message from New York just as we were leaving Constantinople, asking us to stay in Turkey until April 1929. Hope to hear from you again. My India address is care India Note, Y. M. C. A., No. 5 Russell St., Calcutta, India.

GETS LETTER WRITTEN DAY BEFORE DEATH

Robert Flory son of Prosecuting Attorney and Mrs. Charles L. Flory of First Church street, today received a letter from the late Frank L. Johnson, killed by Turkish brigands near Antioch, Syria, on Sunday, February 1, which was written by Mr. Johnson on the day before his murder and was dated at Aleppo, Syria, January 31. The letter was full of interest to a child and was probably the last one ever written by the former well known Newark Y. M. C. A. secretary.

gone and it is a cold hard fact that I can't seem to grasp fully. I will cable or telegraph or send any other word I can. I feel so sorry for Mrs. Perry with her two little babies over here. I am almost as far as money goes, so don't worry any about that. I will be fully taken care of by the Y. M. C. A. in Constantinople. "Is it all really true? It seems as though I must wake up sometime. We were so happy in our wonderful new experiences and now—what?" "This letter will go out tonight in duplicate—one by courier to Beirut, the other to Constantinople. By the time that you receive this I hope I will be out of this land on the way to America with body of my beloved."

CONFISCATE RAISIN MASH IN CASE AVE

Police Chief James Sheridan some weeks ago became aware of the fact that some one in the North End was distributing forbidden intoxicants and an investigation which has been conducting for some time disclosed that numerous persons were purchasing intoxicants. The chief found several homes in the foreign colony where "parties" has been held and he managed to secure a good many goods. Saturday a federal official came over from Columbus to investigate the Cates case, where a partially filled bottle of liquor had been found on the latter which led to his arrest. Chief Sheridan investigated the federal official of his investigations. The company, in company with Patrolman Stewart, went to the places conducted by Mary Isasca, Leroy street and Case avenue Saturday evening found four full barrels of raisin mash. The officials also found a small keg of what was called white wine. The goods were loaded on a wagon and samples taken for analysis and the goods were stored in a warehouse.

If federal officials decide the goods are intoxicating it will be confiscated and destroyed and a warrant issued for the arrest of Mrs. Isasca. The latter claimed that the four barrels of raisins and sugar were to be used for the use of her boarders. She showed a letter to prove that the fluid in the small keg had been shipped by the Overhill Paint company from a city in Pennsylvania.

Case is Settled.
In common pleas court on Monday, in the case of Alice Marvin vs. Ohio Electric Ry. Co., a judgment of settlement was entered, the parties settling a controversy without a jury trial. Plaintiff sued to recover damages for personal injuries sustained in boarding a car of the defendant at Pine street, this city, some months ago.

Wesley Hobart.
The body of Wesley Hobart, 70, who died Sunday at his home in Columbus, will be brought to Newark Tuesday at 3 o'clock for burial in Maple Grove cemetery. He formerly lived in Granville about twenty years ago and has been connected with the Columbus Street Railway and Light company.

AWAIT WORD FROM HEIR ON SALE BIDS

Sheriff A. E. Bryan, representing the heirs of the late John S. Fulton, stated today that nothing would be done in the matter of the sale of the Five Point property occupied by J. W. English with a grocery store, until Bentley Fulton, one of the heirs who resides in the west, is heard from. The other is Mrs. Bryan. Five bids were received for the property Saturday.

It has been suggested that the location would be an ideal one for the city library which must find a new home by Sept. 1. It would be necessary to remodel the property and also make provisions for funds to finance the deal. It might also be possible it was said, for the library to secure a long term lease on the property with a proviso that it could be purchased at a stated price within a given number of years.

Rooster Ate 400 Kernels.
A storekeeper at Montgomery City has sprung a new one in the guessing game. He took a big rooster and, after letting him fast for a day, put him in his show window with a large pan of corn, the kernels of which had been counted.

He offered a prize to the person guessing nearest the number of grains the rooster would eat in 20 minutes. The rooster had a ravenous appetite and for five minutes it looked as if there would not be a single kernel left.

But by the time the 20 minutes had elapsed he had curled up in a corner. He had succeeded in putting away 450 grains. A woman whose guess was 450 got the prize.—Kansas City Times.

AMUSEMENTS

AUDITORIUM.

Pickford's "Pollyanna."

Again it has been conclusively demonstrated by yesterday's overflow at the Auditorium that it is the clean, wholesome picture and not the false stimulus of extreme drama or comedy that the public really wants.

"Pollyanna," adopted from the widely popular story of the same name, in which Mary Pickford portrays the title role, is undoubtedly the sort of motion picture production that sends one away from the theater at peace with the world, in the same frame of mind as that which follows a task well performed, or a pleasant discussion with a friend that clears the atmosphere of uncertainty and doubt.

Mary Pickford was adorable. As the "Glad Girl," she scattered seeds of "Gladness" over a fertile field in a manner to at once delight and frighten the heart of the splendid old doctor whose practice diminished in the same ratio as "Pollyanna's" radius of gladness-giving lengthened throughout the village.

Her very presence diffused the rays of "Gladness" that lighted up the entire theater with their soft glow. Miss Pickford is ideal as "Pollyanna" and her power over the emotions of her audience confirms the rumor that floated up in advance from other cities, that handkerchiefs of the ladies and gruff clearings of the throats of the old gentlemen, would be freely employed at certain stages in the picture. "Pollyanna" runs for this week.

"Romeo's Dad."

Unlike most of the stars of the Stage Women's War Relief series, both Tom Wise and Gale Kane are picture-wise; you might say. These two stage and screen luminaries are the stars of "Romeo's Dad," a thoroughly enjoyable photoplay which will be seen at the Auditorium as an added attraction to "Pollyanna" today.

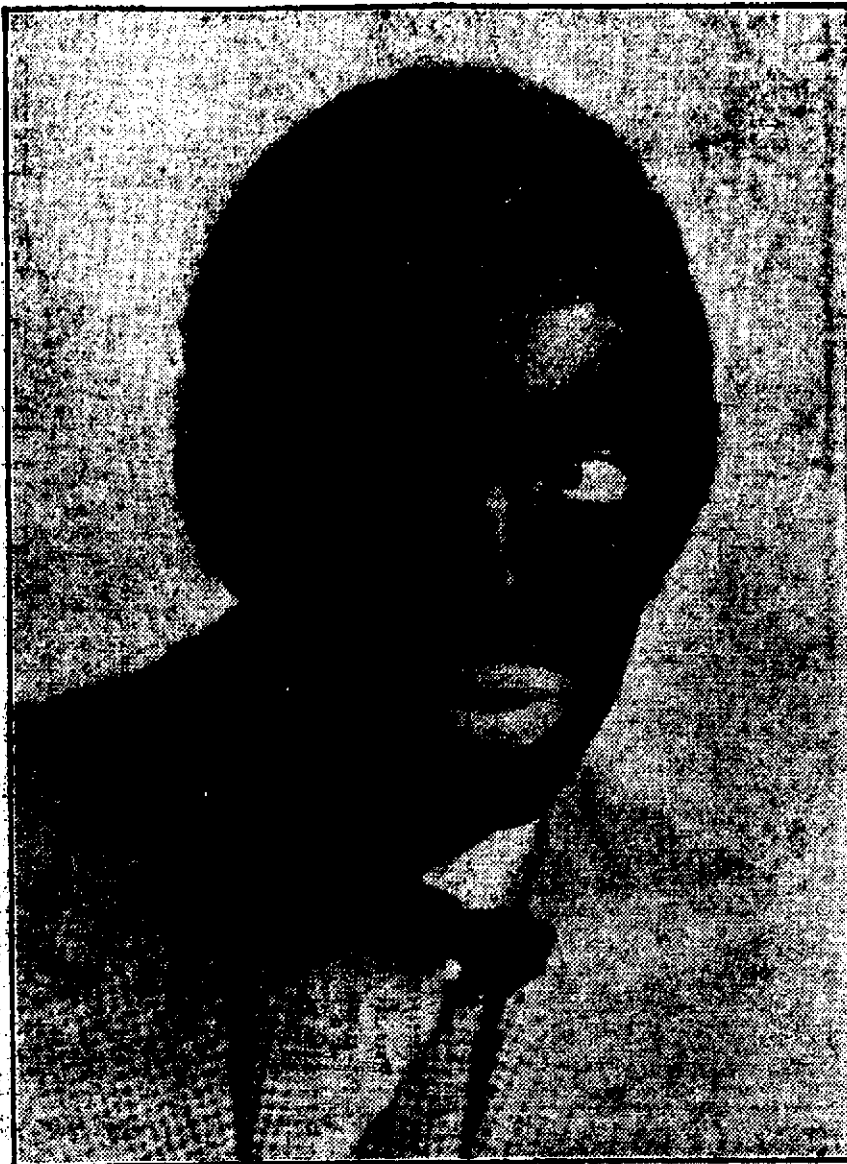

Tom Wise, who is on tour with "Cappy Ricks," after a year's run at the Morosco theater, New York, is associated in the minds of millions of people as "The Gentleman From Mississippi." He played that part for three years and in order to get out of playing it any more he had to write a new play for himself which had a New York showing under the title of "Mr. Barnum."

Gail Kane is still interspersing screen and legitimate performances and "Romeo's Dad" was merely an incident in her busy life.

Jack Wilson.

Mr. Wilson, or Jack, as everyone calls him, is a product of that rough and ready school of snappy comedy tinged with firmness and native genius which has given to the stage such names as Al Jolson, Frank Tinney,

JACK WILSON, WITH "KITTY GORDON, INC."

Lew Cantor, Lew Dockstader and just a very few others.

Jack went on the stage, because the stage was where he belonged. His dad was a minstrel man and a member of Haverly's minstrels in the days when Haverly's minstrels was the finest aggregation of talent the stage has ever seen, and was also featured artists with Primrose, Thatcher and West, Gorman Brothers Minstrels and Frank Dumont's Phila. Stock Minstrels Co.

Jack took to black-face comedy as naturally as a duck to water and knew how to put burnt-cork on before he could put on his collar and tie. Unlike his dad, Jack was too individual and too full of pep for ensemble work he had to do a single. So vaudeville claimed him and soon made him a star, with a reputation from coast to coast, as a comedian with methods all his own. As principal comedian for Kitty Gordon in her new musical comedy, "Lady Kitty Inc.," which incidentally, he helped to stage, Jack has a role

As Dolores, in this picture, Miss Fredrick delineates in captivating style the character of a girl reared in the South who has strong American ideals, and who rebels against being married off without her knowledge or consent to a man not of her own choosing. This forms the basis of an interesting and dramatic story, which has its distinct thrills and heart appeals.

Charles Ray.

In his new Thomas H. Ince-Paramount photoplay, "String Beans," in which he will be seen at the Alhambra theater next Wednesday, Charles Ray appears as the country boy who puts the schemes of a shrewd "bunco" artist from the city to naught. The idea is to raise money from the farmers to start a string-bean canning factory—but it is a swindle and Mr. Ray, as Toby Watkins, the no-account lad from the farm, upsets the whole thing and finally wins the mayor's daughter in the bargain.

ARROW FILM CORPORATION Presents NEAL HART in "WHEN THE DESERT SMILED"

which suits him and his hosts of admirers to a laughing nicety. "Lady Kitty, Inc." comes to the Auditorium next Monday evening.

"Que Vadis."

"Que Vadis," a marvelous photodrama spectacle, produced by George Kleine, and which has thrilled vast audiences week after week in New York, Chicago, Boston, San Francisco, and

Mr. Ray recently had a session with the dentist which is the result of youthful vanity. When he was a lad he thought it would be fine to have some gold in his teeth, so he discovered a couple of small cavities in two front molars. The dentist inserted bits of gold which looked fine in the eyes of the young man and were the envy of his associates. But in the pictures they looked anything but that. So Charles took advantage of his vacation to have them removed and replaced by porcelain. The Ray smile will be more than ever attractive now.

GEM.

A photoplay of vital dramatic value, which runs the gamut of all human emotions, will be presented at the Gem theater on Wednesday by William Fox. The picture is "A Tale of Two Cities," screened from Charles Dickens' great novel of the French Revolution.

In selecting his cast Mr. Fox made the happy decision to have William Farnum, assume the roles of both Sidney Carton, the self-sacrificing if erring Englishman, and Charles Darnay, the courageous and democratic action of a noble French family.

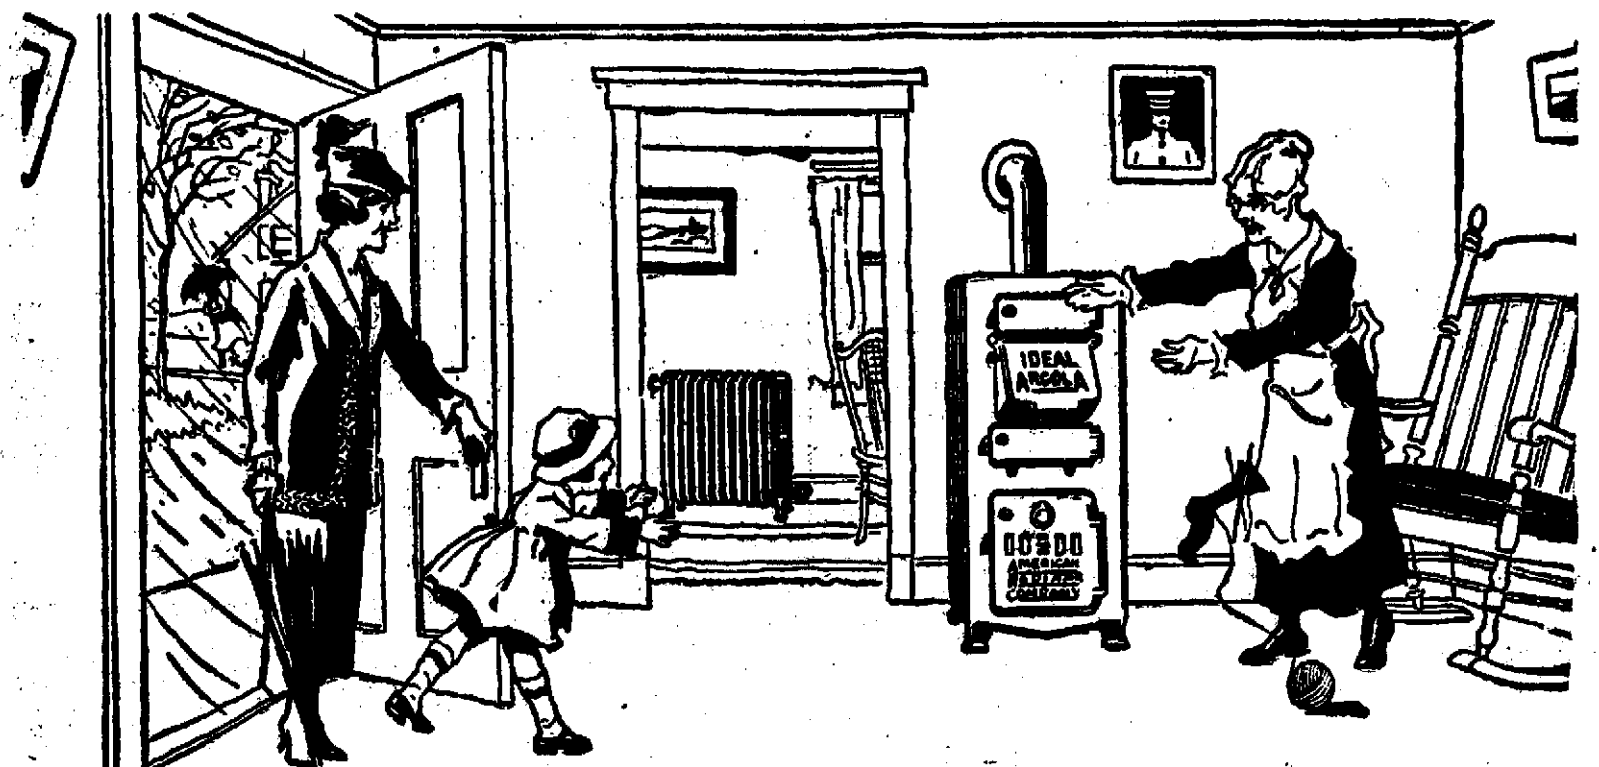

The choice of Mr. Farnum assures to the motion picture public a production replete with interest and thrills.

LYRIC.

Eddie Loop presents his "Yip Yip Yank Girls" for the first time here this season, coming from the Priscilla theater in Cleveland, where they have been playing a two weeks engagement. The report from that theater says it is one of the best shows that they have played this season. The show is full of life and pep, there is a chorus of six pretty girls and the costumes are said to be varied and novel, with plenty of music and specialties.

Photographs taken by the Daguerre process required an exposure of from five to fifteen minutes.

PROFIT OF GOOD ROADS.

The area of profitable farming is limited by the extent of good roads. Many localities having very rich and fertile soils, have never been farmed successfully. Their remote situation interposed a nearly impassable barrier.

It used to be said that the radius of profitable farming was not more than 10 to 12 miles from the railroad. If produce had to be carried more than that over the road, ordinary farming would not be profitable.

The improvement of the roads, and the growing use of automobiles and motor trucks, make it profitable to farm at much greater distances from railroad shipping points. The road is even more a factor than the motor, because horse transportation is still a big factor, and many perishable products are spoiled by being jolted over a rough road.

Thus good roads enlarge enormously the productive power of the country, and make a tremendous addition to food supply. They make it possible to farm intensively over an enormous extent of territory which formerly could only be cultivated in a rough and hasty way.

When good roads penetrate the back country, great tracts of poorly farmed land will be turned into truck gardens for raising vegetables. If the market is not handy for these products, they can be canned in local workshops, and dairy products can also be raised and put up for shipment.

Good roads enable the farmer to take advantage quickly of fluctuations in the market. When he hears by telephone that the wholesalers are asking high prices, he can quickly get his products to market and get the benefit. The farmer on a bad road would not be compensated for the time it would take to transport the small load he could carry.

Facilitating transportation tends to hold down exactions by middlemen, and benefits the consumer by stabilizing prices.

Henry Clews, New York financier, in his weekly review of business conditions says: "It will require some little time before the market emerges from its present rut and occasional setbacks must be expected, but unless all signs fail the skies are gradually clearing."

In one of the western states a fiction writer brought suit against the Pullman company for $17,000 claiming the loss of manuscript placed in the hands of the porter for safe keeping. Might be called a novel suit.

What's the prospect of the reviving old time custom of "Clean Up" day in Newark? The old town needs it. Public health, safety from fires and civic pride demand it.

Weather here the past few days indicates that the March lion may have swallowed the lamb. Never mind; the fish in Buckeye Lake will soon be biting.

Stop Your Coughing

PISO'S
ITCH!

It is practically admitted by Senator Newberry, his associates and counsel that saving Michigan from Henry Ford was a strenuous undertaking. Chatterbox News.

RURAL TRANSPORTATION.

There are two methods by which farm products can be efficiently delivered to shipping points: 1.—By motor truck lines operated by private individuals and companies; 2.—By motor trucks run by co-operative associations of farmers and other business men.

As the new good roads programs are carried out, it is expected that truck route will spring up on every hand. In the farming section near Indianapolis, for instance, there are 1000 trucks now hauling live stock to the city stock yards. These truck routes cheapen the transportation of freight. Co-operative ownership by farmers would seem the least expensive method of running them. The district around Newark should be thoroughly covered by such routes and do you know that the best truck on the market, the ace is built here in Newark by the American Motor Truck company?

PAYING THE NATIONAL DEBT.

(Ohio State Journal.)
There is some disposition in Washington to pay off the country's war debt faster than seems really necessary. Our total indebtedness is in the neighborhood of $26,000,000,000 and the carrying and necessary sinking fund charges alone on that vast amount of money are enormous. Four of the five great bond issues mature on certain dates but are redeemable at par on certain earlier dates. We believe the government's plan should be to let them all run their maximum life. If America saved the world, as we guess she did, she did as much for our posterity as she did for us and posterity ought to have the privilege of paying part of the bill.

The government at Washington has no more important duty now than to get taxes down. We often think that the average politician does not realize how resentful the average man is against the cost of living. It is the paramount issue and the candidate who could convince the public that his election would mean a drastic reduction in taxation and the general cost of living would win in a walk.

LENDING TO GERMANY.

(Philadelphia Record)
Recently a citizen of Johnstown, visiting Pittsburgh had an unpleasantness with the police and a Magistrate assessed him a fine of $100. The accused said he had no money with him, but he had money enough at home if he only had the means of getting there. The tender-hearted Judge lent him money to go home and get enough money to pay his fine.

That is what the Supreme Council has decided must be done for Germany. The peace conference assessed a fine on Germany that Germany had no money to pay. Like the Johnstown man in Pittsburgh, it had been having a tremendous time, and incidentally parted with its money. Now the Supreme Council has reached the conclusion that Germany will have to be helped to pay its fine. It is proposed to sanction an international loan which it is thought neutral nations will take eagerly, and not unlikely that the Allies and America will take considerable amounts. Sanctioned by the Entente Powers, this loan would have priority over Germany's obligations under the peace treaty.

While the peace treaty was under discussion last year "The Record" thought it would be wise to make the indemnity a fixed amount, say the 100,000,000,000 francs Brockdorff-Rantzau offered, but his offer was conditioned on several substantial set-offs that would have reduced the penalty a good deal. Strictly speaking, there is no penalty. There are no expropriated damages. The French people with a vivid recollection of 1871 were determined to get every mark out of the Germans that could be got. Lloyd George promised the English people that Germany should pay the whole cost of the war, if it were possible. Germany could pay the whole cost, and so much was left to the discretion of the Reparation Commission, which has already moderated the amount of coal exacted because Germany was likely to be left without fuel enough to keep its industries in operation.

The opinion of this paper while the peace treaty was being prepared was that the indemnity ought to be a fixed amount, and limited to a sum which Germany could raise, with loans, in a few years. Germany deserved heavier penalties than this, but it is not for the interest of the world that a nation of 55,000,000 or 60,000,000 people after some curtailment of territory, should be reduced to pauperism or suffer a paralysis of ambition and energy because it could get no more than a bare subsistence out of its labor.

It is right that Germany should pay as much of the war costs of the Entente powers as it is able to within a reasonable period of time. But the German people are going to exist, and it is for the good of the rest of the world that they should have an incentive for doing as well as they can.

Aunt Callie says:—Sunday morning I run over to see if I could do anything to make Sheena Cheese more comfortable, which she's been just sick an' is just a-getting up around. I had things started up an' the dinner on when Ima, who is Sheena's little girl, come in with little Hadda from Sunday School. "Well, honey," says Cheese, "how did you like the Sunday School?" she says, "Oh maw, I liked it off well," says little Hadda, "An' they told us the funniest story about how Prodigal Son run away from home an' when he come back his paw seen him coming an' run out to meet him an' slipped an' fell on his kneecap an' broke it," she says, "Oh mercy no, Hadda," says Ima, "It won't that way a tall," she says, "He never broke his kneecap off," says she, "Well, anyway," says Hadda, "he was pretty old an' I no if he fell as hard as I did an' he died yesterday it broke it off sure," she says.

BUELAH
The Beautiful Blonde Button-Maker.
(By Willie Gett.)
Ah! Fathomless and cruel Buckeye Lake! What priceless treasures for thine own doth take! When Buelah perceived her lover leaping from the view by the 300 foot shark she threw her arms wildly above her head, and uttered a cry that resounded clear to Summerland Beach. "Now, alas," thought she, "All hope is dead." "You demon," cried she aloud, "You have murdered my brave lover!" "Yer tears won't help him none," sneered Guestenwitzer. The staunch-hearted Harold was slowly being drug to the stony bottom of Buckeye Lake, when, as if in answer to his unspoken prayers, a lone native rowed up, and, with one blow of his ore, killed the shark and hauled Harold into his skiff. No sooner had our hero regained his senses than he politely tendered the native a cigar.

Maarried Strangers
A powerful story dealing with a problem being worked out in thousands of American homes to-day—that of the husband and wife who find they grow apart while the man was off to war.

XCI.—Keitha Makes New Friends.
Keitha smiled sympathetically at the cheerful little woman sitting in the rain. She had never been seasick herself, but neither had she made a long ocean voyage. "Have you tried all the remedies that people so generously prescribe?" she inquired. "People? People who have never been seasick?" returned the little woman scornfully. "It must be rather an ordeal for you traveling alone, isn't it?" The little woman considered, keeping one finger in the Bible to mark the place. "In some ways—yes," she confessed. "But after the first agony is over, it is positively heavenly to realize that you are still alive when it didn't seem remotely possible that you could be. Sometimes I think pain is given us merely as a contrast, it makes us so much more grateful for our painless moments."

"What a happy philosophy," exclaimed Keitha. "Well, Martha Caldwell," said a hearty voice behind them. "Don't tell me you are risking your life and life of your children on another trip to save the heathen Chinese?" Keitha and the little woman addressed both turned to find the white-haired man who had asked Keitha if she were traveling alone. "Well, well. How are you, Jim?" the little woman greeted him affectionately. "It's good to see you again. If it wasn't for you and me, I don't believe the old Pacific would have many travelers. How's the Java rubber plantation?" "Pretty fair," acknowledged the man. "I've been home," he added. "To England?" He nodded. "The boy," he explained briefly. "He was killed in the Argonne. I went to take him home."

The little woman reached out her hand in sympathy, but she said no word. Keitha turned away to hide the sudden mist of tears that obscured her vision.

Our Boys and Girls

The less a baby or child is noticed, the much better it is. All mothers should know that they will impair the baby's nervous system by trying to make it take notice continually while it is still under six months old. They should not sing, trot or talk to it when, if left to itself, it would sleep peacefully. Mothers should not allow callers to kiss a young baby or to hand it about from one to another just after it has been fed, as this is upsetting to its stomach.

When teaching it should be given a spoonful of boiled cool water to cool it's hot, inflamed mouth and plenty of fresh air. A young baby should not be taken out when evening dews are falling, as these are fertile causes of croup, bronchitis and other chest complaints. Children under a year old should not be given apples, bananas or any kind of fruit, unless it may be a teaspoon or so of orange juice, and then only under a doctor's orders.

Everyday Etiquette

"What is the correct time of departure, being invited by a friend, whose family are living at a hotel, to dinner?" asked Alice.

"It depends whether your host or hostess has made other plans for your entertainment. It is good form to leave directly after dinner, in case no desire has been expressed for them to remain after the dinner is finished," replied Aunt Annie.

Milady's Boudoir

Keeping Warm in Winter.
The woman who must go out every day in winter and who feels the cold inordinately should take to the oil habit while the cold months are with us. Olive oil, from a tablespoon to a wineglass, taken every day according to the digestion, said by a great physician to be splendid to keep the body in shape to fight the cold. It is heating and nourishing and is sometimes taken in place of meat where this is eliminated from the diet, as in cases of kidney disease.

Oil is a gentle lubricant and is desirable on that account if it possesses no other virtue. When the digestion and blood are in prime condition one may expect reasonably good health, but the normal activities of the various functions must be retained, and this is impossible without a certain amount of exercise, preferably out of doors.

Exercise within a heated apartment or house is surely better than none, but the ideal place for exercise is in the open, no matter how cold it may be. The air of the out of doors is not contaminated with impurities such as are found even in the cleanest, most sanitary houses.

Exercise out of doors increases the oxygen supply. It warms the blood and stimulates the circulation. Naturally we feel a glowing warmth, which no radiator or artificial means could produce. Activity out of doors for half an hour, or an hour, every day, the weather permits, will tend to keep the head and throat clear, steady the nerves and encourage deep breathing.

Sleeping in a well ventilated room is important for good health. Avoid drafts but have a fresh current of cool air in the room and have the bed clothes warm but light in weight.

Improved Stereopticon.

A recent development of the stereopticon operates automatically, throwing upon a screen a certain number of lantern-slide views, usually 46, but 100 or 200 or more by special adaptation. The apparatus includes a 1,000 candle-power nitrogen-tungsten lamp, condensing and objective lenses, and a small motor to be connected to a lamp socket on either a direct or alternating current circuit. The machine shifts the slides automatically, allowing each picture to remain on the screen 12 seconds before being replaced by the next. The outfit with screen, slides, etc., packs into a suitcase, and is especially fitted to enable the traveling salesman to show goods by picture, though also adapted for educational displays, home entertainment and a great variety of other purposes.

He Hoped Not.

Edwin R. Hisey, the undertaker, and C. L. Dietz, the broker, are brother Rotarians. One stormy day recently Hisey, while returning from Crown Hill with his motor hearse, saw Dietz standing on a corner 'way up Meridian street. Hisey stopped the hearse and shouted to Dietz:

"Going down, Lew?"
Dietz stared at his hospitable friend and replied:

"I—I hope not!"—Indianapolis News.

THE GOOD NEWS
SPREAD FAST

One person after the other kept telling me what good Dr. D. was doing, so finally this day bought a bottle.

RIGHT THING AT LAST

Relieved constipation; stopped gas formation; eased her kidney trouble, and strengthened the vital organs.

"It seemed like the good news of what Dr. D. was doing spread fast. I kept hearing people talk about what it was doing until I decided to get a bottle also," said Mrs. Wm. A. Gast, 1214 Putnam St., Sandusky, O.

"I've suffered agonies from gastritis. My food soured in my stomach, filled me with gas, and caused griping pains and a choking feeling in my throat. My bowels were constipated so that I had to take medicine almost every night for them. I had been under treatment for kidney trouble for months—seems I had taken everything except the right thing. I was feeling worse of ever being real well again. When I started taking Dr. D. I was truly in a bad condition, for I could eat but very little solid food. Dr. D. acted in a soothing manner on my stomach and stopped the gas almost at once. My food began to nourish me and my nerves got steady. My bowels acted in a normal way each day; the headaches stopped and my sleep became peaceful and I'd rise in the morning feeling refreshed. Dr. D. has proven a wonderful tonic to my vital organs and made a new woman out of me."

Dr. D. is made from the pure liquid extracts of many herbal plants, which act on the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and enrich the blood. Dr. D. is highly recommended in this city by Dr. C. H. Berry Co. Rate Drug Store. 3-8-24

RESCUED FROM A "FLU" SICK BED IN THREE DAYS' TIME

Joseph LePore Tells How Wonderfully Nerv-Worth Accomplished the work.

This extraordinary statement was made a few days ago to the Nerv-Worth druggist at Erie Pa. "I suffered from severe pains. Very feverish. Stomach and digestion in very bad condition. I was forced to my bed and remained there three days. At times I was burning with fever, and then I 'froze up' and knew I had to fight the 'flu'." My wife read a statement about Nerv-Worth being such a great help to ward off this terrible malady, and she purchased a bottle. In a day or so I was out of bed, and am ready to go to work. Nerv-Worth certainly did all and more than the makers claim for it. It did its work effectively in my case and I advise all to use it and WARD OFF THE 'FLU'."

Dispelled The Blues, Says Mrs. Blue, Since She Took Redex

Is Cheerful and Happy Now, After Recovering Her Health By Using Redex, the New Herbal Remedy.

A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. If your stomach is out of order ill health will be the result. The stomach, in normal condition, digests and assimilates food, producing solid flesh, rich blood, firm, strong muscles and nerves attuned to the major life. These are the elements which produce abounding health and spirits, mental and physical vigor and make the happy, successful man or woman. Deprived of its power the stomach becomes a deadly enemy to health. Dyspepsia, indigestion, bowel and liver troubles, kidney diseases, eruptions of the skin, sleeplessness, nervous disorders and other serious maladies are the result.

Redex is a splendid stomach remedy and helps the organs to perform their proper functions, thereby insuring health which every human being seeks to possess.

Among the numerous statements recently received is one from Mrs. Blue, wife of Mr. Will Blue, in the employ of the Ansted & Burk Milling Co., Springfield, living at No. 5 West North street, who says:

"I had a very severe attack of influenza last winter, but in a weakened and run-down condition. For the last few months I have been subject to pains in my back, nervous headaches, and occasional dizzy spells; I have

JACK RAFFERTY'S SON SURVIVES LONG SERVICE

Jack Rafferty, former baseball umpire and well known to Newark fans, has received a cablegram from his son, Edward Rafferty, saying he was alive, well and was sailing for America. The cablegram came after young Rafferty had been presumed as dead for almost two years. He is supposed to have been a prisoner of the Austrians during that time.

Young Rafferty is expected to arrive home in a few days. He was reported missing in action in the summer of 1918. Young Rafferty enlisted in the Canadian army in 1914, at the outbreak of the war. He was later transferred to the British army and fought in the blockade runner for the British and French armies. Later he enlisted in the Italian army and the last letter received by relatives was on March 16, 1916, and was written from Genoa, Italy, a short time before the Italian offensive in the Alps.

The cablegram announcing his sailing was received by his mother, Mrs. Jack Rafferty in Columbus. Young Rafferty had been interned in a military camp in Europe and it was supposed that he had been captured by the Austrians. He stated that he had been unable to communicate with his relatives and that he had just been sent to one of the seaports enroute to America.

MAPLE SUGAR TO SOLVE GREAT SUGAR QUESTION

Washington, March 8.—The sugar shortage and the approach of "sugar weather" lead Department of Agriculture experts to make the statement that many thousands of American farmers throughout a region comprising more than a score of states, in the eastern and northeastern part of the United States, are overlooking opportunities to secure maple sugar and sirup for home use, as well as for sale, at very little cost.

While Americans commonly think of the maple sugar industry as confined largely to circumscribed areas in New England and New York, there are, as a matter of fact, many potential "sugar bushes" in the region extending as far south as North Carolina and Tennessee and westward to northern Missouri, Iowa and Minnesota as well as in Washington and Oregon. In a good season a tree 15 inches in diameter will yield sufficient sap to make from one to six quarts of sirup, which in turn can be concentrated into two to ten pounds of sugar.

Discoveries made by government investigators of many groves of sugar maples in North Carolina, one of which is probably larger than any now to be found in New England. The owners, being unaware of the value of the trees from the maple-sugar standpoint, had begun cutting them for lumber at an average return of less than $1.00 a tree. Last season, upon suggestion of government experts, these groves were tapped and yielded sirup that sold for $4.00 a gallon. Revelation of the potential value of the groves induced the owners to plan more extensive operations for this spring.

The year's flow of sap is expected to be more satisfactory than last year. The maple sugar and sirup industry is distinctly American and offers good commercial opportunities, government experts say, for those who go in it systematically, as the demand for both sirup and sugar is far beyond the supply.

The strawberry belongs to the rose family.

When children grow pale and listless their blood may be weak.

PEPTO-MANGAN MAKES RED BLOOD

Sold by druggists in liquid and tablet form—both the same in medicinal quality.

When your child loses color, acts and talks without spirit, and does not play like other children, act quickly. If the condition is not a deep-seated disease but merely due to poor blood, give Pepto-Mangan. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is just the tonic for pale, thin children whose blood needs rebuilding. It is a pleasant-tasting, simple combination of exactly the ingredients that increase and enrich the blood.

Beneficial results show almost at once in brighter eyes, blooming cheeks, a sprightly step, and the whole system made more vigorous.

Pepto-Mangan is obtainable in liquid or tablet form, whichever proves most convenient. Both forms possess identical medicinal qualities.

There is but one genuine Pepto-Mangan, and that is "Gude's." Ask your druggist for "Gude's" and look for the name "Gude's" on the package. If it is not there, it is not Pepto-Mangan.—Adv.

GREAT MEDICINE

Made From Corn Silk—Excites Favorable Comment.

Kidney and Bladder Ailments Banished By Few Doses.

Corn Silk, "The same silk" you see protruding from the husk of corn, produces a fine medicine for kidney and bladder irregularities, when compounded with other simple drugs as in Balmwort Tablets.

Balmwort Tablets contain a powerful extract of corn silk, which quickly relieves the inflammation and congestion that causes such distress as pains in back and hips, rheumatic twinges, nervousness, severe headaches, accompanied by frequent desire to urinate, followed by scalding, burning sensation. The patient is compelled to arise frequently to relieve painful pressure, even though a scanty flow follows. The eyes appear "bloodshot," the sleep is restless, and sometimes fever, followed by chills cause great unrest. It is unwise to neglect such symptoms, when a few doses of Balmwort Tablets can be taken for relief. Alice Trobrough, 5427 South Twenty-fourth street, Omaha, Neb., writes: "I have used one tube of your Balmwort Tablets and find that they are the best I have ever used for kidney and bladder trouble."

Ask any leading druggist for a tube of Balmwort Tablets. Price, $1.00.—Adv.
